Co-hosted by leading international aviation law firm Gates & Partners, the seminar will debate and discuss the challenges of risk management for business aviation companies operating within the region.

Chair Aoife O'Sullivan, lead Partner at Gates, will be joined by Chairman of MEBAA Ali Al Naqbi and experts from Kenyon International Emergency Associates, the international disaster management company which recently signed a Memorandum of Agreement with MEBAA allowing members to take advantage of Kenyon's experience when handling a disaster or preparing for a crisis.

Key topics relating to the complex business issue of risk management will be presented by members of the Gates and Partners team, experts from JSSI, Kenyon and MEBAA. Themes to be presented include an analysis of where liability falls should an incident occur, how to fully prepare for unexpected situations and emergencies, exploring the potential legal consequences of grey charters, and how to select the most suitable insurance policy. The seminar will finish with a panel discussing how all sectors of the business aviation industry could co-operate to tackle the challenges presented by risk management at all levels.

Delegates will include operators, brokers, financiers, and insurers along with other members of MEBAA. The interactive seminar will encourage attendees to present their ideas, solutions and questions at what is anticipated to be a lively and informative event. "We want to demonstrate that risk management is a positive part of the industry and suggest guidelines that will encourage delegates to think pro-actively about the issue," commented O'Sullivan.

"We're delighted to be working with Gates and Partners on this innovative and important seminar," commented Ali Al Naqbi. "As the Association develops, we are keen to support our members and ensure the region's business aviation industry follows best practise to ensure business aviation in the Middle East is one of the most professional sectors globally."
